- Do you have bad mood swings that can last days, but nobody around you really knows how you are feeling?
- Do you feel guilty or ashamed a lot of the time, even though others might tell you that you have nothing to feel guilty about?
- If you have a conflict with someone, do you go to response to "blame yourself"?
- In relationships or friendships, do you have a tendency to idealize someone but then eventually decide that you don't like them anymore (even if you don't consciously let them know)?
- Does it feel as though you are separate from everyone, empty, or numb all the time?
- Does it sometimes feel as though you are watching yourself go through life instead of really being in it?
- When you get angry, do you have a tendency to push it down or suppress it?
- Do you feel like a burden to others or that you are just taking up too much space?
- When people hurt you, do you have a tendency to cut them out of your life rather than try to discuss what happened?
- If you get upset, is your tendency to go into withdrawal mode and not talk to anyone at all?
